1] Again, most claims are not supported with up to date references. Cite at least 20 current (2012 and better) articles, conferences proceedings, working documents etc (peer reviewed) to support claims in the introduction aspect of the study. You cannot review literature by citing only 2 references. 2] The in-text referencing in paragraph 1 (www.blogspot.com), do not give any resources on fruits. It is not related to the topic under research and has been wrongly cited. Check and correct. 2] Check the referencing format for the journal (VANCOUVER reference style) and follow that. The in-text referencing do not follow the Vancouver style
