PART 1: Review Comments

Compulsory REVISION comments	This manuscript evaluated the frequency of self medication practice in Uyo, Nigeria. The data collected in this investigation might be of value in providing information and baseline data for future investigation of changes in self medication practice in Nigeria. It is suitable for publication after some minor changes.	Thank you for the encouragement. The necessary changes will be made.
Minor REVISION comments	For introduction, I would suggest the authors to unite the one-sentenced paragraphs and form a more solid structure. Sentences cannot start with a number; thus "443 (93.9%) of the 115 respondents practiced self-medication with antibiotics." Can be changed as "Four hundred and forty three" or "The number of respondents who practiced self medication with antibiotics was 443" On lines 149 and 150, "adverse reaction" is a better substitute to "bad reaction". In figure 2, there is a typo on the word "medicaition". Should be corrected as "medication". "Hispital bills" also should be corrected as "hospital bills". Please change all the sublines to "sentence case" or "lowercase" style on figure 2. On lines 172 and 173, instead of writing all the references at the end of the sentence, please add each reference to where it belongs. e.g. Ethiopian (42%) (Worku and Miriam, 2003)... In line 295 "uyo" should be written as "Uyo" and there	The one sentenced paragraphs were united to form a more solid structure.
