Compulsory REVISION comments	There is a mistake on the title: anhydride and not anhydrite. The title must be reformulated: Walnut shell modified by maleic anhydride: Synthesis and characterization The resume does not explain properly the aim of the work; it might be rewritten with more attention to the details. I do not agree with the method of titration of the carboxylic acid present in the modified polymer. A standard method must be used using phenolphthaleine under nitrogen flux. The paper must be rewritten by given more attention to the details.
