| Compulsory REVISION comments | The article is quite simple and understandable, however it is important to make this work more robust by improving or adding to the analytical tools. line 7 should read; the study was conducted to assess the perception of the effectiveness-----Mean score from any point likert scale is conventionally used for analysis rather than the frequency and percentage of the respondents perception. Secondary data where not used in this study thus line 69 talking about secondary data should be expunged. |                                                                                                                                                                                      |
| Minor REVISION comments      | I do not think it is necessary for the author to use both negatively and positively keyed statement in this study                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |                                                                                                                                                                                      |
