FINAL EVALUATOR'S comments on revised paper (if any)	Authors' response to final evaluator's comments
Although this currently manuscript have been reviewed (and improved), this second revised version still has many problems. The authors present a brief discussion, but it is a poor scientific discussion. Many results presented are not discussed properly. Still, each reviewed version that the author presented, the currently manuscript showed news problems in the cited references (mainly in formatting; misspelled words in English). In addition, the references that the authors cite, are doubtful. These references are books or reports or thesis. These kinds of references are not available to all researches, and that there is the necessity of manuscript reproducibility you must need to use accessible reference. So, use accessible reference (example, paper from indexed Journal), as parameter to help the policy makers in making decisions on future fish culture...
