PART 1:

Journal Name:	Asian Journal of Agricultural Extension, Economics & Sociology
Manuscript Number:	Ms_AJAEES_25538
Title of the Manuscript:	Socioeconomic Characteristics of the Betel Leaf Farmers in the Teknaf Peninsula, Bangladesh
Type of the Article	Original Research Article

PART 2:

FINAL EVALUATOR'S comments on revised paper (if any)	Authors' response to final evaluator's comments
→ Authors did not highlight the corrected/changes sentences in the article, so it is not possible to track the changes based on previous comments. → I did not found any new analysis according to my previous comments, and to publish it in the AJAEES. → English language of the article may be changed throughout the article but not highlighted. but other sections remain same compare to the previous article. → Yet, authors failed to clearly justify the importance of the study for international audience. → Data used for this study is so old (during 2010 and 2011, more than 5 years old), therefore I am against of the old survey data. → If the authors are agree to collect new data then the study would be a interesting one. → Why BL-NC was included in the study where they represent the 52.8% of the total sample. You should survey only those families who involved in betel leaf cultivation. → Some contradictory sentences are there like: line 208 to 228. Recheck these lines with your study. → Discussion section is not strong enough for a research article. Most of the part of this section is the repetition of the results section. → Conclusion is not completed; rewrite it without repetition of the previous sentences. → There is lack of Novelty in the article because authors already published several articles about the study villages and I found that most of the articles discussed about betel leaf farming and the same findings. I think there is no need to publish a separate article from the summarization of the previous findings. → Still the overall design of the article is like as any project report rather than as a scientific article.
