

Editor's Comment:

- This is a good research paper with nicely presented data and discussion. In order to produce a strong research paper, I would suggest making a comprehensive check on sentence structure, punctuation, capitalization, etc. Some of the examples are listed below>
- Authors must re-check sentence structures all over the text. Many sentences were written in a weak way. Single and plural issues must be considered carefully. For an example, in the second line, it was stated (In this study, both economic model) . It should be corrected to (In this study, both economic models)
- In the Introduction, it was stated (..... about 87% rural household directly or indirectly depends) . It should be corrected to (.....about 87% of rural households directly or indirectly depend....)
- In line 42, it was indicated (Production of such types high value commodities....) . It should be corrected to (Production of such high value commodity types)
- In the Introduction, it was stated (Agriculture is the higher dominating sector) . It should be corrected to (Agriculture is the highest dominating sector **;)

- Punctuation is very important, commas must be placed properly. Many examples can be listed here.
- In line 46 , it was stated (Tomato (Lycopersicon esculentum),special type of crop which is mostly grown in winter season in south-east and south west part) . It must be corrected to (Tomato (Lycopersicon esculentum), is mostly grown in winter season in south-east and south west parts of Bangladesh, and are a good source of vitamin)
- In Line 57, it was indicated (.... although many study (Samshunnahar et al. 2016K) . It must be corrected to (.... although many studies (Samshunnahar et al. 2016)
- Proper capitalization is of great importance. Several examples can be listed. For an example, in Line 67, it was indicated (The area, Kamalganj upazila of Moulvibazar district was) . It must be corrected to (The area, Kamalganj Upazila of Moulvibazar District was)
- Another example about capitalization is in Line 71. It was indicated that (, namely Alinagar and Adampur unions (Union parishad is the smallest administrative of local government of Bangladesh) of Kamalganj upazila of Moulvibazar district . It must be corrected to (, namely Alinagar and Adampur Unions (Union Parishad is the smallest administrative of local government of Bangladesh) of Kamalganj Upazila of Moulvibazar District

- In line 152, it was stated that (Among the three farmers fertilizer cost is higher....) It must be corrected to (Among the three farmers, fertilizer cost is higher)
- In line 153, it was stated that (Total variable cost was estimated as BDT.) . What is BDT, Abbreviation must be explained
- Authors must indicate the currency exchange for the local currency, This means how tk s in one dollar (1 USD = tk.) .This is very important for foreign readers.
- Present and past tenses must be used properly. Some of the examples are in line 135, where it was indicated that (The major costs associate with the tomato cultivation was laobur) It should be corrected to (The major costs associated with the tomato cultivation were laobur)
- Also in line 140, it was indicated that (The amount of human labour used for tomato cultivation were 306 man-days per hectare...) . It should be corrected to (The amount of human labour used for tomato cultivation was 306 man-days per hectare
- In line 170 , it was stated that (as compared to large and medium farm holder. It must be corrected to (as compared. to large and medium farm holders.

- In line 220, it was indicated that (In the study areas tomato farmers faced) . It must be corrected to (In the study areas, tomato farmers faced

Please note that I cannot list all the mistakes, notes and suggestions. Authors must re-do a comprehensive check in order to produce a strong research paper
