a. Lines 71 to 83 did not state what study each of the cited authors embarked upon before their findings. b. Ex post facto research design is only suitable for studies where secondary data are relied upon. The resign design stated by the author is not suitable for this study since secondary data were used. Survey research design is the most suitable since the author used structured and pretested interview schedule. c. The scale developed by Kalaivani (1999) which the author adopted is the instrument which the author needs to carry out reliability and validity tests on.	a, b. Have made all the corrections. c. Actually I am in the final stage of my thesis submission, all the research work has been carried out with the guidelines of Advisory committee. The article is to be published from the scheduled research credits. Hence, any more additions or changes is not approved by advisory committee.
