1. There are many grammatical errors and typos. The authors should spend more time on revising it.

Author's feedback :

Before all, I would like to be humble enough in giving my feedback to this critical comment. I do understand sometimes when we are narrating the issues unknowingly and unconsciously there is high tendency of violating the grammatical rules since we more focus on the message Sentences may become lengthy whereby there is tendency of creating grammatical errors. I also believe experience makes the things perfect. I tried to go through and have shorten some of the lengthy sentences to avoid the tendency of creating grammatical errors. Furthermore, through repeated proof reading, I tried to address some of the grammatical errors and typos. I do hope the paper could address the message it wanted to convey to the readers.
