

Editor's Comment:

The authors must insert the following phrase in discussion section: "This case of frontal skull parosteal lipoma is presented as a radiologic diagnosis without histologic confirmation as MR imaging shows a lesion of fat composition (identical scan characteristics and iso-intense with the subcutaneous fat) in the frontal subperiosteal location, and there was no indication for surgery in an asymptomatic, benign, stable lesion."

After that the paper can be accept.

Editor's Details:

Dr. Ivan Felismino Charas dos Santos
University Estadual Paulista "Júlio de Mesquita Filho", Brazil