Compulsory REVISION comments	We agree with these Conclusions: Conducting educational series such as the current one reported is an excellent strategy to increase 185 consumers/farmers' awareness of organic agriculture. Earlier, Bowen & Faison [14] also 186 reported that educational workshops are an effective way to reach some audiences. The series 187 revealed that consumers/farmers are willing to learn about organic agriculture. Furthermore, if 188 organic foods are available and the prices are affordable, Alabamian consumers/farmers will 189 create the demand and respond to the shifting market dynamics.
