FINAL EVALUATOR'S comments on revised paper (if any)	Authors' response to final evaluator's comments
Impressive improvement in the revised copy with few grammatical and intext citation - punctuation errors. Some examples are: Line 10, States, 278 eligible academic staff completed self-administered questionnaire, using simple random samplings. This statement suggests that the method used by the academic staff to complete the questionnaire is, simple random sampling technique. I suppose, the writer wanted to say he selected the 278-academic staff using simple random sampling technique. If this is so, it should be corrected to reflect the procedure intended. Check the following lines for punctuation errors in intext citations. Lines 17, 21, 51, 138, 150, 151, 168, incomplete sentence in line 61, grammatical error in line 303. Data analysis: It stated test of significance using that chi square. The results did not however show any evidence of such.
