Compulsory REVISION comments	-
Minor REVISION comments	As general, this paper is based on a research work in which student project allocation problem is solved via Stable Marriage Algorithm. The paper briefly explains background and focuses on the achieved results. The paper has an interesting subject. But before it can be published in the AJRCOS, the following minor revisions should also be done: 1- Total number of references should be increased with around 10-15 additional references by including also recent ones from 2016, 2017, and 2018. 2- Views from taskbar and window should be removed from the screenshots within the related figures. 3- Fig. 1 should be given with a simpler and smaller scheme. 4- It is not necessary to include sub-titles under the Introduction section. The related sub-titles should be removed. Thanks the author(s) for their valuable efforts to form this paper – research.
