I still observe some methodological problems with this article. It seems to me this is a descriptive transversal study, but it is mentioned as a prospective study. At the methodology, it is cited that was used a "pre-validated self-designed modified questionnaire based on the literature search", but there is no reference to support this affirmation. I also observed that there is no references to support the data cited at the introduction. As for the language, I don't like phrases that are initiated by numbers.	Corrected: The feedback is well taken and the changes have been done accordingly.
