| Minor REVISION comments      | The mathematical approach is correct but the explanation is very short. I mean that mathematical results are understandable but there is not economic explanation. They should include more "economics" not only the results. Explain what the results mean in economic terms. How could you apply your mathematical results to markets? |                                                                                                                                                                                             |
