Compulsory REVISION comments
Minor REVISION comments
Optional/General comments	The article is very interesting. Authors investigate the oxidative balance in rats maintained on the ripe Musa paradisiaca peel. The peel was mixed with other ingredients to formulate four diets replacing cornstarch at 0%, 50%, 70% and 100%. The results revealed that feed intake, feed conversion ratio and average weekly weight gain were not significantly ($p>0.05$) affected by the test diets. Article is well structured and considered to be good for publication at "as it is basis".
