Manuscript Title: The historical interpretation of the interactions between plants-herbivores: an methodological exercise with the genus Piper

Type of Article: Short communication

I observed that this paper is written in poor English and as such requires complete grammatical editing starting from the title till the end of the paper.

Consequently, the research work is not coherent with the title as it was proposed to be a historical perspective to interactions between plants and herbivores OR plant herbivores and what? With the genus Piper as a case study.

As it has been observed as well, conclusion and probably recommendations are missing.

Finally, the paper could be dropped for a proper overhaul and representation.
