PART 2:

FINAL EVALUATOR'S comments on revised paper (if any)	Authors' response to final evaluator's comments
Comments are indicated in blue on the revised manuscript. The authors do not seem to understand that the reader has to be kept in mind constantly. There is a total disregard for the reader even after the first round of reviews. This is evident in the lack of punctuation and spaces after dots and commas. The authors do not seem to know the style of scientific writing of ha⁻¹ and that no dots should precede it. This is also indicative of a lack of proper proof reading. At line 245 the authors use the word agro system, which is not consistent with the title and the rest of the manuscript. This word is also new to be me and does not seem to occur in any dictionary. The authors should quickly learn that technically good research should not be messed up by irritating the many readers of scientific papers.	Many thanks for the suggestions. The lack of punctuation and spaces is not my fault. I have now deal with all that. We now use agro-ecosystem instead agrosystem
