Title of the Manuscript:	On the geometry of Complex-Contact Riemannian Submersion
Type of Article:	Original research papers

PART 2:

FINAL EVALUATOR'S comments on revised paper (if any)	Authors' response to final evaluator's comments
I am disappointed with this revision. In my previous report, I asked for a major revision, which was necessary both because of issues with the contents and with the language. Instead, the authors only made some minor changes. In particular: • it is still not clear from the introduction what the contribution of this paper is compared to previous work; • the abstract and the introduction are still full of language mistakes, as if they were not read before submitting; • there were some new mistakes introduced (e.g.: they now refer to the 11th item in the reference list as "Maria et al (2004)", where Maria is the first name of the first author); • even mistakes that I pointed out explicitly in my previous report (such as the reference to Gray on the first page or the recurring misspelling of "Riemannian" as "Riemnnian") were not corrected at all. I am afraid that the authors are not capable of correcting contents and language issues to end up with a publishable manuscript and therefore suggest to reject the paper.
