| Compulsory REVISION comments | The author(s) should state what was actually done to enforce novelty of their work. Was the stated software modified or what? The first paragraph should have at least once reference. This figure 5 is hard to read. What does it mean? The figure caption should be expanded. Or the author(s) could explain the figures in the body of the manuscript. The reference/citations is too short. The discussion (section 4.2) here is too short. The equations should be typed properly |                                                                                                                                                                               |
| Minor REVISION comments      | The equations should be typed properly                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |                                                                                                                                                                               |
| Optional/General comments    | This manuscript is fair and could be accepted if modified accordingly.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |                                                                                                                                                                               |
