I think authors are still to carry out the modifications earlier suggested as per the "abstract" and "materials & methods" sections of the revised manuscript. Is like they didn't get it clearly. ABSTRACT Background= study context + a clearly-stated aim; "aim" does not stand as a sub-section. MATERIAL & METHODS For a better presentation, authors should demarcate the various subsections with headings like: study design, sample size determination, statistical analyses, etc. RESULTS Table 1: It is very clear "age" is given in years (Y); needless putting "Y" beside the various age groups.	Aim was removed as a sub heading in the abstract section and inserted to the context of the background. Demarcation was done accordingly as per the following sub headings : Research design: Technical Design: Setting & Sample Size determination and statistical analysis: In the table 1: various age group "Y" has been omitted as before except Age (y) mentioning on the table 1 subheading.
