The script is much improved, but STILL confuses the referencing styles, combining names and numbers in the text, especially the Discussion. All the following NAMES for references are redundant IN THE TEXT of the script:- Rizzoli, R et al. [9], Baginsk et al. [22] and Patricia AD [23]Ginder EM & King JD [24] and Goldenberg H,[25].Oliviera et al [38],Gouda ref 39, Stanley, LE et al.[40], Michael ref [47], Kruger [45], Napoli N et al.[49], Larson T et al. [50] Oliveira [54]. The affected sentences with names adjacent to the references need to be re-scripted to make sense, and ONLY the numeral used for referencing. It reads like a personalized attack, and consequently lacks objectivity. As ONE example: These results were collaborated by Gouda, SMH [39] and Stanley, LE et al.[40], who reported that cortisone caused the increase in size and weight of cells of regeneration liver through the increased infiltration of lipid and decreases in femur bone weight. The word “collaborated” is a malapropism: what is means is ‘corroborated’. The writing style must use the information and numerical reference and omitthe name of the reference in the text. Suggest:- These results have been corroborated by other researchers who reported that cortisone caused an increase in size and weight of cells of regenerated liver through the increased infiltration of lipid and a decrease in femur bone weight.[30,40] The conclusion is made up of four concluding remarks. Accordingly the heading shd read Concluding remarks	The indicated corrections have been made. No doubt, this improved the quality of the manuscript. Our immeasurable thanks for the meticulous review.
