| Compulsory REVISION comments | This paper provides appreciable information on the relationships of epilepsy with a number of redox-related factors, and is expected to meet the interest of many Journal readers. This review may also suggest prospect clinical studies.                                                           |                                                                                                                                                                               |
| Minor REVISION comments      | Unfortunately, English style and even English grammar are definitely wanting. This reviewer volunteered to clean up plenty of text, as per the enclosed file. Even so, the authors are urged to find the assistance of a qualified proofreader in order to make this paper suitable for publication. |                                                                                                                                                                               |
