| Compulsory REVISION comments | Work is good and interesting, highlights the nutritional aspect of amino acids that should be included in bird diets, however the cost as well as the availability should be considered. It is recommended to update the bibliographic support that can support and contrast the results obtained That the references are written according to the writing style that is requested Include in each paragraph the respective support or reference | The nutritional aspects of the most limiting amino acids and their requirements are in Table 1 (NRC, 1994). Other useful details are in the Introduction Section and the amino acid compositions from manufacturers. A thorough review of all studies ever carried out on Ideal Protein concept was done. You will see old literatures as well as some recent ones. |
| Minor REVISION comments      | Include in the results section tables 3 and 4 Caring for the writing style of the results - are many - highlighting the "most important" The inclusion of the references correctly - both in the paragraphs, as in the list of references                                                                                                                                                                                                               | Corrected as directed.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
| Optional/General comments    | In the document some errors of writing (marked in the text) are observed. it is recommended to compare similar current studies with the results obtained.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | Corrected as suggested.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |
