

Editor's Comment:

I have made a lot of effort to sort information about this manuscript. Everything is very confusing. The authors did not implemented suggestions by the reviewer E.G.Oboha. In the revised version of the manuscript, there is no information about the location of seed germination, the number of days for germination, the references are not updated, etc. The other two reviewers proposed a review of the manuscript. In the meantime, I would also suggest some corrections, not seen by reviewers. The technical processing is very bad (or opens up to me a computer). In the original version of the manuscript, on the page number 9 has no title, and the technical problems there are in text, L 181-188. This table does not exist in the revised version of manuscript, and technical defects occur between L 203-205. Also, the list of references is out of date - from 17 references, even 15 are older than 10 years. It is necessary to update the list of references. Also, section 3.1. not to be titled Analysis of variance, that is the method as it was tested, but it can be titled as The germination test, or the like. So, my suggestion is to return the manuscript once more to the authors for review, to correct everything that the reviewers have proposed and only then to be accepted for the publication. I hope that you agree with it.
