PART 2:

FINAL EVALUATOR'S comments on revised paper (if any)	Authors' response to final evaluator's comments
Sorry, but I will not be able to perform a new revision of this article. I read the article reviewed by the authors. However, the article still presents serious writing problems, due to the lack of English language proficiency by the authors. For quality maintance of this Journal, it will be need a review of the English language by a specialized service, which should provide a English review certificate. There are several services available. A new submission for evaluation of this article should only be made when the authors submit the article for this correction. Since the article does not meet the writing standards for scientific articles published in international Journals. Therefore, I do not agree with the article publication without English writing correction by a specialized service.
