Minor REVISION comments
Optional/General comments	It is interesting to introduce the GIS into the FX management. I recommend to move the section on the previous studies on use of GIS in Business to Appendix. Further introducing an example on FX risk hedging might enhance the quality of paper.	Previous studies on use of GIS in Business is the literature survey on which its rationale for foreign exchange risk management is built. Examples on choice of functional and presentation currency are given in the Appendix. The author observes that GIS can help in the understanding of the choice of functional currency by companies.
