

Editorial Comment :-

I had carefully read over and over the revision and the authors response. At present manuscript, the authors had widely revised the paper do their best.

1. Introduction: At present introduction, I think it is confusion. The authors should introduce the disease, and the present the Capsicum frutescens.
2. Discussion: The authors present the capsaicin expensed the heat energy, how it increase body weight? In general, expensed the energy means decrease the body weight. At the same time, at present the authors only concentrated on the Capsicum frutescens, not the single bioactive ingredients. Please highlight on the research objective in the discussion.
3. There are some revise in the manuscript.

AUTHORS FEEDBACK ON EDITORIAL COMMENTS

- 1) INTRODUCTION: The introduction has been revised to concentrate on capsicum frutescens and diabetes mellitus.
- 2) DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSION: The issue of body weight reduction with consumption of capsicum frutescens and the probable reason responsible for its body proteins sparing ability while aiding the burning of fats, has also being included.
- 3) TITLE: The title has been slightly modified to reflect the issue of body weight.
