1. A lot of typo still presented throughout the paper. The English is very poor, requiring a professional improving. 3. The style of the reference is still chaotic, still not unified and still full of typo. For example: "Japanese journal of clinical ophthalmology". References are at least questionable throughout the manuscript. For example, why did you used peer reviewed papers to "Parts of the macula" or other anatomical issues? A lot of references are not completed. The figure legends are not in order in the text. "Treatment" in the legends of figure are still not specified. The whole text is hard to read due to the excessive number of different mistakes.	All corrections including typing error has been corrected and rectified.
