Compulsory REVISION comments	Cataract surgery number is very low compared to its known incidence. It must be emphasized. Is there a waiting list because of the financial background or is it because of the low number of ophthalmologist? Or the cause is only the relative younger population compared to the European population? What about the rising generation of ophthalmologist? Is there a better future and more ophthalmologist? Do you have some data (number, technique, number of surgeons) about vitreoretinal surgeries? It would be also interesting.
Minor REVISION comments	Reference list is not unified in its form. Table 1, population number: please add "million"
Optional/General comments	It is an interesting, concise, logically-structured summary of Eye Care Services in Yemen.
